Did you know that family is the primary educator?

Did you know how important a healthy family dinner is, where the TV is turned off and families actually communicate?

Come join us for valuable conversation tips and fun interactive family activities to navigate the teen years!

- * This evening is designed to engage parents along with their middle school youth in an open and honest conversation about substance use, peer pressure, social media, how hard it is to be a kid today, and other issues facing our teens.
- * This evening will be filled with fun and engaging activities that will help ease your apprehension of 'where do I start' with setting guidelines and expectations through this valuable experience.
- * You will walk away from this evening knowing that as a parent, you have started the difficult conversations and now have the knowledge and skills to continue these important dialogues throughout their teen years. Parenting is tough, let us help guide you through these important years.
